Creative Graphic Visual Designer

George has 16 years of web design, user interface design, digital art and web developer experience, 14 years of which has been with TriNet as part of their web dev team. At TriNet George was engaged with the design and development of their HR Portal and annual enrollment sites.

Marketing Multi-media

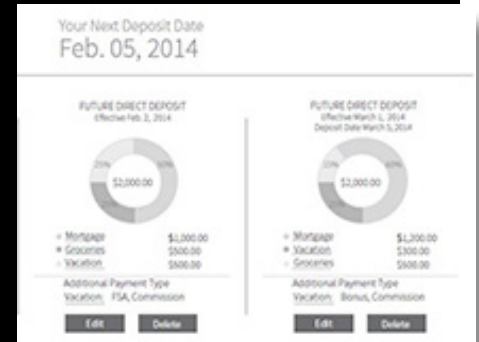

In the field of Marketing & Multi-Media, George enjoys the creative process when visualizing an idea or concept as well as the production portion where he can utilize his skills in order to produce the end result.

From creating on-line tutorials, ad banners, digital graphics, logos, HTML emails, to video and audio recording/editing, George is comfortable working in these mediums utilizing his skills in Adobe CS6, Camtasia, Protools, and other programs.

UX

In UX design at TriNet, George created low and high-fidelity wire-frame designs with visual specifications and annotations for developers. For the design team he created an on-line Interaction Pattern Library. George keeps current with today's industry standards and design patterns. On January 1st 2014, George completed Udemy's online course "User Experience: The Ultimate Guide to Usability".

Other on-line courses George has recently completed include web animation, CSS, and responsive email-web design, bootstrap, InDesign & WordPress.

APRIL 11, 2014 | LEAVE A COMMENT | EDIT

After returning home from an evening out on the town, more often than not I find myself reminiscing over my experience and thinking of how much nicer it may have been, "if only" kind of stuff, not rocket science. It's true, the older I get the more of a critic I seem to become and why not, I'm older, wiser and more experienced.
